Girl, 4, Shouts the Alarm; Mother Rouses Families

After a timely warning by a four-year-old girl, 11 thrilling rescues were made today in a fire on Fremont avenue, Everett, on the crest of the city's highest hill.

Two alarms were sounded, calling help from Chelsea, Malden and Somerville.

The fire was across the street from Whidden Memorial Hospital. While most of the occupants of the four-story house were still asleep, with the fire gaining heavily, four-year-old Judith Burstein,

JURORS SEEK TO REOPEN VICE QUIZ

Fifteen of the 21 grand jurors who heard evidence in the probe of alleged vice and police graft conditions in Brookline today signed a petition asking that the grand jury session be reopened.

Among the demands of the majority of the investigating body which has already returned 21 indictments against six persons was, foremost, that Police Sergeant Harry H. McNeill of Brookline be summoned as a grand jury witness.

The sergeant was one of those indicted. McNeill, it was said by one member of the investigating body, and confirmed by Attorney George Stanley Harvey, counsel for the indicted men, had been perfectly willing to testify.

LIQUOR FOR BOYS, GIRLS

Passage of a bill, designed to block serving of liquor to boys and girls of high school age, was urged on the legislative committee on legal affairs today.

Another bill which would permit dancing in night clubs on Sundays was both strongly supported and opposed.

Representative Thomas Dorgan of Dorchester, who filed the bill to put more teeth in the liquor laws, told the committee: "It is common knowledge that high school girls and boys are taken to licensed places by adults and given drinks by them when the waters are not looking. It is a shocking condition."

Mr. Hearst Discusses The Sit-Down Strikes

Mr. Hearst was requested by the Literary Digest to discuss the question of sit-down strikers in one hundred words for a symposium.

The following exceeds the hundred words and is printed in full in the Hearst papers.—Editor's note.

IN REGARD to sit-down strikers, the crucial question is whether there is any longer any ownership of private property.

If there is, the sit-down strikers have no legal or moral right to occupy what does not belong to them.

If there is not, I suppose that sit-down strikers have as much right to occupy what was once private property as any others.

It all depends upon whether we hold to the American, or have adopted the Russian system.

If we have as a people, or as politicians, adopted the Russian system, there is nothing to do but let Communism run its course as it has in Russia—a sorry course with a frightful ending.

Experience is a hard teacher but fools will learn from no other.

Perhaps we, too, must learn the bitter lesson that Communism is not an admirable, not a practicable policy.

It is merely an infectious mania. It is the creed of the credulous, the gospel of the gullible.

IN PRACTICE, it begins in anarchy and ends in tyranny.

There are two things which can always be sold by fakery to the ignorant. One is perpetual motion, the other is Utopia.

Both are born in the thought or hope of something for nothing.

Both are as abhorrent to nature as a vacuum.

The voice of NATURE is the voice of God.

DEMAND NEW WRIT TO END 'SIT-IN'

BULLETIN
Detroit, Feb. 4 (INS)—The auto strike parley went into a luncheon recess shortly after 2 p. m. today. Governor Murphy said the conference would resume at 3 p. m.

(Copyright, 1937, by International News Service)

Flint, Mich., Feb. 4.—Roy Brownell, General Motors counsel, said he was going into court today to ask for the arrest of United Auto Workers' Union leaders and the sit-down strikers who, he claims, have defied Judge Paul V. Gaudola's evacuation injunction.

"The sheriff said he would clear the plants if he got the order," Brownell told International News Service. "Now we're going to give him a chance to do it."

Meanwhile, strategists of the General Motors and the union took up where they left off yesterday in the presidential inspired auto strike conference.

SHERIFF WONT COMMENT

Sheriff Thomas Wilcott, told at General Motors' arraignment, refused comment.

"I am going to wait until I get the court order," he said. "I do not care to comment."

"Will you call on the state marshal?" he asked.

"I don't care to comment."

"Will you get in touch with Governor Murphy?"

"I don't know what I'll do," the sheriff replied. "I don't care to comment right now."

General Motors' attorneys attempted evasions of the sit-downers yesterday at 2 p. m., as ordered by the court. He told Sheriff Thomas Wilcott not to attempt evasions, while the peace conference between GMC and the UAW were in progress.

Police Chief Ed Norris found Johnson's body lying on the cell floor, a belt attached to the not and around the man's neck.

Night Jailor Charles Ludwig said he talked to Johnson about 11 o'clock last night and the man appeared despondent, even after Ludwig said he might be released to unite.

Johnson was arrested in the "Hobo Jungle" here Friday after some of the 100 other transients complained to police the man acted queerly and they thought he might know something about the "Hobo" kidnapping. Mr. Ludwig said he knew of the affair.

EXPECTS MEN TO LEAVE
Brownell expressed opinion there would be no violence if the sheriff used the troops to clear two Fisher body plants.

"I believe the union officials will ask the men to go out peacefully," he said. "Surely they will."

Ladies' Dog Club Show Rehearsal Attracts Many Leaders

By BETTY ALDEN

DOGS ARE LIKE CHILDREN in more ways than one. Yesterday the Ladies Dog Club conducted a novel dress rehearsal of the forthcoming dog show, in the ballroom of the Hotel Lenox.

They called the affair a "rehearsing" and their canine pupils had just about as much desire to attend school as children returning from a pleasant summer vacation.

Getting the larger dogs, like "Lia" Loring Power's mammoth black Newfoundland, and Mrs. Francis Crane's Great Pyrenees, through the revolving doors into the hotel was problem enough. . . but once inside the ballroom all the animals seemed to have doors on the brain. . . . Every time someone either came in or went out the dogs would snap out of their patient, dignified show dog attitudes, and make a lunge toward the exit. . . straining at the leashes in the hands of their protesting mistresses. . . .

The lessons were fairly simple and merely a repetition of the course of sprouts which every show dog knows by heart. . . . The feature of the program was the drawing of a large silver cup which was not awarded, but drawn by lot, as a souvenir of the evening. . . . Mrs. Crane, daughter of former Governor Frank G. Allen, was the holder of the lucky number which entitled her to the big trophy, and it was presented to her by Howard C. Davis of the Greyhound Racing Association. . . .

Mrs. Crane had rather a strenuous time pushing her Great Pyrenees, Paton, into a becoming pose for his picture but was dressed for the part in a sturdy tweed suit on the brown and beige tones and had the dog's truster close by to lend a helping hand when necessary. . . her tussle with Paton was amusing to the chef and elevator boys of the hotel who suspended all operations to get a glimpse of the biggest dogs that have probably ever graced a ballroom floor. . . .

Sister Ware, who came out last year, and has been showing her wire-haired terriers for several seasons, brought one of the pets she has entered in the annual dog show at Mechanics Building, February 21 and 22. . . but not before she herself had played and won a badminton match. . . .

Frances Porter Will Be Judge

MRS. N. STUART CAMPBELL and her saucy little Scottie late arrivals. . . but just in time to have a picture taken, which is all part and parcel of the life of a show dog. . . . Mrs. Campbell brightened her all black outfit with a three strand pearl necklace and a silky silver fox scarf. . . while her companion, Mrs. Alexander S. Porter, was all in black with a caravel coat and velvet beret. . . the latter's sister-in-law, Frances Porter, secretary of the Ladies Dog Club, is replying to be a judge in the Washington's Birthday show so her Welsh terrier is not entered and therefore not much in the limelight these days. . . .

Mrs. Charles Gray, another member of the Ladies Dog Club, had no pet with her but attended to watch the behavior of her friends' entries. . . Mrs. Roland Baker lead her Old English sheepdog around with her friend, Miss Edith Buckingham, who had a similar dog on her leash. . . .

Mrs. Delphin Mungus of Waban, Mrs. Edward Dandewitz with her prize-winning papillons, butterfly dogs and Mrs. J. B. MacLachlan and Miss Grace Stockpole of Medford were others leading pets about the room. . . and each looking forward to the big show and the possibility of winning ribbon. . . .

Cutler Family Well Represented in Drive

ALTHOUGH THE COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN involves thousands of people, it is pretty much of a family affair among the leaders of the organization. . . For as Robert Cutler, general chairman, pointed out at yesterday's report luncheon, all those who are enthusiastic about the campaign have enlisted the aid of their whole families, even to distant uncles and aunts and second cousins. . . .

To prove his point. . . much to the amusement of all the campaign workers who gathered at the luncheon to mix a little entertainment and relaxation from the arduous task of soliciting funds, with the serious business of reading reports. . . Mr. Cutler introduced members of his own family whom he has mustered into service. . . .

These included Dr. Elliott Cutler, director of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, one of the guests at the head table, and his wife. . . Mrs. Leslie B. Cutler of Needham was smartly dressed in black with white embroidered jacket and two red jaquered quills tucked in her hat at a jaunty angle. . . Mrs. Donald Cutler of Brookline and several others. . . .

The Bidwell family is another which has a large representation among the workers. . . Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bidwell were luncheon together at one of the large tables while the former's brother, Chandler, did the honors for the family at the head table. . . . Present also were Dave, Nelson and Thayer Bidwell. . . .

Among the hundreds of workers gathered together in the ballroom of the Boston City Club were Dr. and Mrs. George R. Minot, Mrs. Alexander Wheeler, Virginia Ellis, Mrs. Charles Howe, George Von L. Meyer, Samuel H. Wolcott, Harry Fessenden who sat with his brother-in-law and sister, the Edward Bidwells, Mrs. Alexander Whitehead, Mrs. Robert Lovett, Mrs. Wilbur Higgins, Mrs. Harvey Bunn, Polly Ehrlich and Bill Chamberlain, Mrs. Howard Shaw Warren, Robert Choate and Dr. A. Warren Stearns. . . .

'Green Light'

By Lloyd C. Douglas

A GREAT AUTHOR'S STORY OF LOVE VS. DUTY
(A Consequential Picture to Be Released Soon by Warner Brothers)

CHAPTER 26

"You said Grace saw Dr. Page for a moment just before the operation. Was he upset or excited?"

"No one didn't notice anything like that. The nurse said they were being delayed a little because Dr. Endicott had been required to go to the telephone."

"Wasn't it queer, speculated Sonia, 'that he should be doing any business on the telephone at the moment when everything was set for an operation—patient waiting—and all that sort of thing?'"

"Emergency call, perhaps," thought Phyllis.

"Make it was the same emergency that took your father to the telephone?"

Facing Facts

"It's quite possible," Phyllis agreed. "I recall now—because I was called to the telephone and told that Dr. Endicott had been required to go to the telephone."

"Sonia smiled back—patient waiting—patient waiting—patient waiting."

"Let's try to organize a little picture, Phyllis. Dr. Endicott is getting to be an old man. Everything he thinks he needs is tied up in stocks. He is just ready to go into a difficult operation. He is called to the telephone and told that he hasn't a dime left to save himself with. He is an older man than your father—and you know what that name means to him. Then Dr. Endicott comes back from the phone—and operates."

"Phyllis went on, smiling the face of her father as he had been."

"Now," pursued Sonia steadily—"he came in at from another angle. Young Dr. Page is the assistant. Dr. Page—he tapped the father with his fingertips—'is devotedly attached to Dr."

Mother's Words

"I think it beautiful—almost touching—the relationship between two brilliant men. Whenever Dr. Endicott's name is mentioned, Dr. Page reacts to it much as an exceptionally devoted son might react to an adored and revered father. Listen to this: 'I gather that he looks Dr. Endicott is working to hard.'"

"I tried to make something of that, too," said Sonia, "but it doesn't make sense. Dr. Page had no interests at all, except his profession. I think it very doubtful that he would throw his life away to shield another man."

"You mean," queried Sonia seriously, "that from what little you saw of him, yesterday, you doubt if he is the sort to do such a thing?"

"No—I don't mean that, at all. Perhaps he might," Phyllis was thoughtful, silent for a little while. "I think he might," she added.

"And I think he did," said Sonia. "There are people level enough to do that. I fancy have one of them."

"Momentarily disturbed by Phyllis's suggestive denials, I leave now. I shall be back in the door of the taxi—dead in the street."

"Traffic—deadly watching her until she was out in the crowd. With no definite plan except to seek some quiet spot where his plans—incidentally—would be made unobtrusively. He was in the doorway of the taxi—dead in the street."

"He walked slowly among the walls, the paintings blaring into a noisy jumble of men and women. He was in the doorway of the taxi—dead in the street."

"He was in the doorway of the taxi—dead in the street. He was in the doorway of the taxi—dead in the street."

Both Sides of Spring Suit Question

IF YOU'RE going to whip in and out of town on all sorts of errands, come spring, with your car too and on your hair flying, and a dune or two always in the offing at each end of the line... then your spring suit is type No. 1, without any doubt about it. If you're going South (perhaps on that first fateful event, the honeymoon), with lots of luxurious and glamorous places to visit, none of which can or should detract from your own aura of subtle enchantment, then put your money on No. 2, above, right. And then you can look forward to coming home, and dazzling the already rapturous female coterie of yours with all this inconspicuousness of fur and pole, sheer fabric in the late, warm springtime.

These are two particularly notable examples of spring suit—type No. 1 in the casual, though important manner, and the other in the frankly formal class, frankly expensive. Left, the color scheme is marvelous—gold sheer hula wool dress, deep wine accents, homespun tweed jacket with black, green and wine strung over a natural surface. One of the brand new dress-and-jacket suits, for there's no dividing line at waist, No. 2 flatters. And notice the intricate flare at front of skirt. Shoulders wide, but not puffed or punched into shape, pockets set high, in the Schiaparelli manner we've told you about before. Miss Mimi Little models.

Right, Lido beige in the sheerest wool on record, so smoothly and softly tailored. And then the sudden drama of pale beige top, loads of it, blossoming all around your shoulders. As the fox falls away, it discloses a new excitement—prism silk carnations, huge mauve and blue ones, scattered over the bodice. Accents of gloves, hat and shoes are dark—as they should be with beige. Notice the fine flattery of the fluted trim the taffeta off-the-face bouffant this season. Modeled by Miss Lee Stephenson.

"Your Figure, Madame!"

By IDA JEAN RAIN

SPOT exercises bring symmetry. If your hips are hopeless and your waistline deviated from its girlish design, it's your duty to beauty to exercise.

After twenty-nine, every woman needs a beauty program of exercise. Whenever you see a woman of indeterminate age with a gorgeous figure—take my word for it, she exercises.

Exercise lets muscles grow fishy and fat cells gather, and you can't keep young and supple without exercise.

Here is a daily dozen to keep your figure in trim—do not do them by halves!

Stretch!

Vogue for Bleached Hair Continues; Here's Best Way of Doing It

By DONNA GRACE

THE vogue of light hair still continues—from the tawny bronze shades to platinum. There is every variety of gold, amber and topaz. Any of the lighter shades is flattering if the skin is fair. There is a radiance that is attractive and feminine with this fair combination.

Girls with dark skin and dark eyes look rather striking in a really beautiful hair. But, unless a girl has a really perfect skin, she had better not try to make her hair match her complexion. It will be a disappointment in the long run.

Most girls who have a fair complexion and light eyes, and who are not too young, will find it best to have their hair bleached. It is a simple matter and can be done at home. The best way to do it is to use a mixture of hydrogen peroxide and a little ammonia. It is important to use a good quality of peroxide and to follow the directions carefully.

When the hair is bleached, it is important to use a good conditioner to keep it soft and shiny. A mixture of egg yolk and olive oil is a good one. It is also important to use a good shampoo to keep the hair clean and free from dandruff.

It is also important to use a good hairbrush to keep the hair in place. A wide-tooth comb is a good one to use. It is also important to use a good hair cream to keep the hair soft and shiny.

It is also important to use a good hair oil to keep the hair soft and shiny. A mixture of olive oil and almond oil is a good one. It is also important to use a good hair spray to keep the hair in place.

Herbert Marshall says:

"...a light smoke is a joy to the throat"

"Before I came over to this country an English cigarette appealed to me because it was firmly packed. In America I tried various popular brands looking for the same virtue. Lucky Strike led all the rest. And what's more—I soon discovered that Luckies were a light smoke and a positive joy to the throat."

THE FINEST TOBACCO—
"THE CREAM OF THE CROP"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Marshall verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen, and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat!

B-R-R-R! It's Cold 'Shorty' Sleeping Local Boosters Kiley to Wed

By JACK CONWAY

B-R-R-R! B-R-R-R! B-R-R-R! I am beginning to think Bostonians are like Floridians. They are home town boosters.

When I was in Miami, I received dozens of letters from friends in this city telling me what swell weather they were enjoying and how datta I was to pay a lot of good money to go to Florida for a vacation.

I don't accept the Washington weather as an example of what I might find in Boston. I thought it a President Roosevelt and Jim Farley were merely a small crowd to some of the folks who voted for London.

SALES TALKS ON WEATHER

"This is the coldest spell we have had this winter," he stated as he pulled my golf bag around his tonsils and washed himself down with my suit case and typewriter. "The weather has been so warm this winter that I have been expecting the May flowers to start blooming any day."

"I don't see why folks go South for any way," he went on, "until they have all the weather in Boston."

SNOW IS ON WAY

"Home sweet home," said these shorts ready. "We are for home. The climate in Florida to get it, and have it proper. I don't like the cold weather seekers in Washington, but I have to go. I will be there and snow back with me."

"SHORTY" ASLEEP AT SWITCH

In the night, Robert, my secretary, was asleep at the switch when I left him when I departed for Florida early in January. He was on the water wagon at the start of the New Year, and I feared that the only way he could get any rest at all was by sleeping his pipe away by going to bed and sleeping through the winter.

Waterbury came out to me that the love birds were called in from the South, and that he was leaving for Miami for the rest of the week to be married to Miss Margaret Lyons, a Boston girl now in the Magic City. I told Mr. Lyons where in Miami, Walter, and there was a commotion about her as there is in Miami. You're sure to be told that. My only regret is that I won't be sitting on the beach with my friends at this wonderful breakfast as I can see the first time ever given at the Yacht Club.

I want to see a good word for Florida. Down there in all that sun and happiness every Floridian is waiting night and day to give funds for the flood relief. When I was hit by hurricanes the other summer, the people of Miami helped us, and Governor Cline. I want to tell up our sleeves and show what we can do for the hurricane in distress.

MARGIN PROBLEM

AWAITED BY Street

IN QUIET MARKET

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Wall and State Street eyes will focus on Washington for the next two weeks in anticipation of catching a glimmer of light on the current status of in-and-out trading.

Word from the Capitol is that the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System will take a stand on the matter before a fortnight elapses.

Two actions are up to the Government. The one is to issue the present regulations by amending Section 7 to read it shall be the duty of all margin on the cash and the various companies to limit the problem through their own rules. If the first amendment is adopted it is likely the Government will eliminate or reduce the present three-day grace period which is now permitted for clearing up margin accounts.

The second action is to issue the present regulations by amending Section 7 to read it shall be the duty of all margin on the cash and the various companies to limit the problem through their own rules. If the first amendment is adopted it is likely the Government will eliminate or reduce the present three-day grace period which is now permitted for clearing up margin accounts.

Noted: Ford of Canada may report as much as $2 per share, based on 1936 earnings, estimates for this year actually run to twice that figure.

But we are told that earnings may not be reported as high as the latter figure. Electric Auto has built up a real profit in 1936.

That one could easily support a substantial rally and that the stock market is not in a panic, is the opinion of the writer.

The stock market continues to fluctuate along with the depression. The most recent bull market was in 1926. It was a year of recovery. However, this year of recovery has been a year of depression. The stock market has been a year of depression. The stock market has been a year of depression.
